THORP DISCUSSES SUBURBAN HORSES IN FINAL SUBURBAN GALLOPS

Delhi Should Have the Honor, but Public Is Loyal to the Great Mare and Bookmakers Will Profit Accordingly.

BY FRANK W. THORP. Who will be ravorite for the Sub-urbant Beldame? Probably, Bookmakara are wise. They knew that the public believes that Beldame has come back to her best form, and they know that the public will want to back her. Con-sequently she is likely to open at a much shorter price than her form war-rants.

Long Island Champion Covers Westbrook's Course in 80, Walter Travis Doing It in 81 Strokes.

(Special to The Evening World.)
GREAT RIVER, N. Y., June 14.—High GREAT RIVER, N. Y., June 14.—High temperature this morning ushered in the Westbrook Golf Club open tournament. There were a good many unexpected defaults, but the field, while not large, was nevertheless one of the best of the season. It included Waiter J. Travis, Jerome D. Travers, Arden Robbin, John Moller, ir., R. C. Watson, fr., and about twenty others of the best emown Metropolitan players.

The day was devoted to a Schole qualifying round. Jerome D. Travers, the Long Island champion, yesterday in practice broke the local amateur record by a stroke in making a 74.
